ACTUAL COMPETITOR BINGO PAPER

With more action and excitement compared to regular bingo paper, it's easy to see why UniMax® is preferred by players everywhere!

UNIMAX BINGO PAPER

Auditrack System Advantage

Arrow's Auditrack™ System will help to simplify the tracking of sales. As paper sales and profits grow, Auditrack provides an easy method of maintaining reliable & secure accounting of each session's sales.

Auditrack Sales & Inventory Tracking

For most paper cuts, each bingo sheet is printed with an audit number. At the end of each session, subtract the original starting number from the audit number on the first remaining book, and you will know the exact number of books sold by each floor person.

EXAMPLE

You begin a session with books that run from 1,501 to 1,600. At the end of the session, the top book is 1,588. When you subtract 1,501 (the starting audit number) from 1,588 (the ending audit number), you can calculate that 87 books were sold for that session. To determine total sales, simply multiply the 87 books sold by the selling price.

Every audit number includes a page number and is printed on every page of a booklet. Cuts are identified with a prefix before each audit number.

UNIMAX BINGO PAPER

Maximum Security Features

Protect your profits with the innovative security features of UniMax®! There are four main security features to use when operating a game:

① Border Color

The border color used on the bingo face identifies which game is currently being played.

② Serial Number

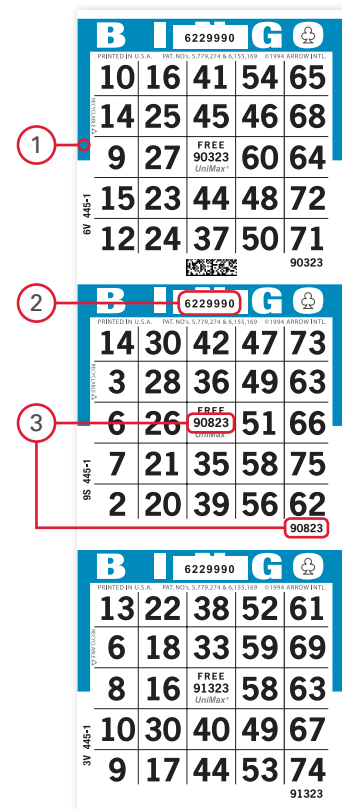

This number should be posted at the beginning of each session to indicate the serial number that is currently being played..

③ Card Verification Number

The unique number is printed on each bingo face and is used to identify the 24 number face configuration of the B,I,N,G,O numbers printed. It is used in electronic or manual verification to determine if a face is a valid winner for the current game.

④ Paper Series

Identifies the cards in play by the different ranges of 9,000 cards.

All four items should be used as part of your process to verify a winning bingo card. When the floor workers are verifying the bingo card, the caller should ask what series the paper is, what the border color is to determine that the winning face is the correct game in the program, what the serial number is to determine that the series was sold on the floor for the session, and finally, the card verification number to ensure the proper game pattern is the winner (either through electronic verification or verbal call back of the winning pattern).

UniMax has a state-of-the-art 2D barcode printed on every sheet that contains important information about each bingo booklet:

- › Serial Number
- › Paper Type
- › Page Number
- › Audit Number
- › Series
- › Pages per Book

Maximum Integrity, Accuracy, Efficiency, and Security

The 2D barcode printed on every sheet of UniMax® is an incredible benefit to bingo operators using a point of sale (POS) system with barcode scanning capabilities. During sales of UniMax, booklets can be scanned to quickly & accurately identify the product information for faster & more efficient sales.

Booklet sales and accounting will be faster and more accurate, allowing operators to streamline their sales and get players into the bingo game faster and more efficiently. The additional integrity that this process offers will not only be a benefit to operators and bingo players, but to distributors as well.

UniMax Packaging

Each box of UniMax® paper is labeled with a QR code for quick access to information including paper series and audit numbers.

Booklets of UniMax are packed sequentially in boxes by audit number; all products are inspected prior to being packed into boxes.

Selecting the Right Series

1

Begin by listing each cut used at your hall, starting with the most popular cut at the top of your list

4

Write down the UniMax series selected for that cut and cross out the entire row corresponding to that series

2

With the most popular cut used, locate the column in the table below that corresponds to that cut

5

Repeat steps 3 & 4 for the remaining cuts, making sure not to duplicate a series that has already been crossed out

3

Using that column, locate the smallest number corresponding to a UniMax bingo paper series
